in darkened woods the smell of fallen showers all around keep in time with may day flowers make love to the ground i see the tree that watches me and listens to my sound a tree by any other name would surely cut me down i am the lord high human being seeing, knowing al i am mother nature's matricidal son and that is all a black hawk moving slowly through the darkness of the night some creature small with back to wall shall be his prey tonight the morning sun creates world news as he puts up a fight a sun by any other name would surely shed me light i am the lord high human being seeing , knowing all
