She's waited for a prince to come
Thinking everyone deserves some love
And she wonders if he'll show up
She's been waiting there long enough

Let it go
Let it go
Let it go my little angel
'Cause your story has already been told

He can hear her walking down the stairs
So he looks but she ain't really there
Sure he thinks about her all the time
Was it really what he had in mind?

Let it go
Let it go
Let it go my friend
'Cause your story has already been told

There are times when he cannot think
And he can't find the words to sing
'Cause the words they come too fast
Some words ain't meant to last
Some words ain't meant to last

So let it go
Let it go
Let it go and you will realize
All these stories have already been told
That all these stories have already been told
That all these stories have already been told
