"The Dream Within"

Visit "The Dream Within" on MotoLyrics.com

With this dream in your heart but no place to call your home No doors have simply opened up to you for you to choose which one to step through But now there's pressing time and pressure from every side wearing at your peace of mind Should this not have been an easy choice Follow your dreams they told you but dont fall out of line
Out of step with the pace you were meant to run
And dont forget with everyday you wake they will watch your back They'll watch your every move its overwhelming the expectation to fit in But you cant forget with everyday you waste it eats away
You had no intention of being a greedy man With a young mind you'll upset a world gone mad with a lust for success and the burden of perfection
If you can remember your hunger for truth take heart Speak from your heart let your actions show who you are Dont let this frigid life starve out the artist in you Take heart. This dream within will carry you through defend your passion remember your youth take heart. There's no one who will take it for you wake now face the day finding your strength let the light permeate the grey defend what you love remember your passionate days
