"Friday Morning"

A desperate breath inhaled, then it leaves you hollowed out
As you struggle to feel something Abandoned eyes that drowned in the disbelief and doubt
When you woke up Friday morning

It still seems so surreal
These scars will slowly heal
I remember when you kneeled
You didn't say goodbye
You knew she wasn't gone
You whispered "Until we meet again, you'll be watching me I know
Please save a place for me and when I finally get called home
I'll see you smiling there"

The angels in your bedroom softly sing your name
It's getting easier to sleep now
So you feel some comfort, but still it's not the same
But it's better than the twisted silence

You woke up Friday morning
