Just imagine a world where hearts don't break
And goodbye was a word no one would say
Where people were people, not cogs in machines
And a child had no worries, just cartoons and dreams

Just imagine a night with me back in your arms
Where the light of tomorrow outshines the dark
Where no one walks out, they only walk in
Until then, I'll just imagine

Just imagine a clock whose hands would reverse
And pride had no voice 'til love spoke first Where you pull in the drive when the work day is through
And I'm waiting there like I used to do

Just imagine a home where we live and we laugh
And look to the future, not old photographs
It's my wish on a star, my prayer in the wind
Until then, I'll just imagine

Just imagine how clearly I see through these tears
How badly I miss you and wish you were here
The sound of your voice, the touch of your skin
Until then, I'll just imagine
