Did you see me fall away?
At what point did fate crumble to the ground?
I thought I found something to last forever.
Holding on with desperate tears,
I was screaming but you could not seem to hear me cry and now, I surrender.

Broken pieces all around

Better think of something fast.
Better off leaving with these last times
So you'll keep remembering me.
Better take a look at what you had
Better figure out something the next time
When you keep remembering me forever. Remember me forever

Tell me was it good for you?
Cause its what kept me glued to what I knew all along was going in the wrong direction.
I don't think I gave up too early.
I don't think life is long enough to go and waste it all on imperfection
Broken pieces all around

Better think of something fast
Better off leaving with these last times
So you'll keep remembering me
Better take a look at what you had
Better figure out something the next time
When you're still remembering me forever.
Remember me forever

Running on empty always
I swim to the surface always
But the truth is always hard to take
In broken pieces

Better think of something fast
Better off leaving with these last times
So you'll keep remembering me
Better take a look at what you had

Better figure out something the next time
When you keep remembering me forever. Remember me forever.
You'll remember me
