I was so desperate for company
And there you were, faking good friends to me
So I put on my little act for karma

I could have kept fooling the world
But you don't fool karma

That's why I have to say

Chorus:

I never loved you
And I never told you
I guess I should have
But I was too hurt to care
I never loved you
And I never told you
I guess I should have
But I was to hurt to care

I was such a prey for generosity
And there you were posing a family
So I kept on my little act for karma

I could have kept fooling you
But you don't fool karma

That's why I have to say

Chorus:

I never loved you
And I never told you
I guess I should have
But I was too hurt to care
I never loved you
And I never told you
I guess I should have
But I was to hurt to care

Now that I've confessed to using you
Just to go through the day

Do you think you have it in you
To confess to yourself
That you were using me too ?

(Refrain x3)
