Angela

Cory Morrow

Album: Double Exposure - Live

You remember being just sixteen

Fall in love and feeling free

There was this girl and she filled your mind

And you said she'd be the one this time

Ah but, she never turned her head when you walked by

You never made her laugh or caught her eye

But you swore in silence everyday

That you would some how make her turn your way

She would fall under your magic spell

The days go by, Ohhhh

I wish she could see me in a different light

I wish that I'd of told her on that fateful night

Maybe then she could have been my bride

Id stop searching everyday and Night

Oh Angela,

Can you ever feel the way I do for you

Oh Angela,

Don't you know I'll always dream of you

You just passed your turn around eighteen

Your still wondering what those feelings mean

Catch your eye and you start to smile

She turns away just for a little while Ohhh but

You tell her it was always meant to be

She says don't give your heart so easily

She holds him tight and kisses him so free

And you scream, lord that should be me

And she should be under your magic spell

The days go by Ohhhh-ho

I wish she could see me in a different light

I wish that I'd of told her on that fateful night

Maybe then she could have been my bride

And I'd stop searching everyday and Night

Oh Angela,

Can you ever feel the way I do for you

Oh Angela,

Don't you know I'll always dream of you

Oh Angela,

Can you ever feel the way I do for you

Oh Angela,

Don't you know I'll always dream
You know I'll always dream
Don't you know I'll always dream of you
