They said we don't take your kind,
No, we don't want no guys like you.
I lied my way til December,
Hoping Christmas would pull me through.
And then I hung around thinking religion would take its toll,
The lord threw no signs that day,
It seemed that no one would take me at all.
Then I saw the light on the stage.

And I said sing with me.
Oh sing with me,
Sing all night long.
Then hold me close until the morning sun,
Comes searching for the dawn.

I hitched my way back to Houston,
Where I knew that I'd find a home.
My mother claimed no vacancy,
In this new house that I'd never known.
I found myself a stray all alone
Caught up in the midst of my pain.
In the howling winds of the night,
I swore someone was calling my name.
I turned only to see the light on the stage.

And I said sing with me.
Oh sing with me,
Sing all night long.
Then hold me close until the morning sun,
Comes searching for the dawn.

I took my last dollar,
Made some change, and I called a friend.
He said that's no problem pal,
You know we'd love to take you in.
So he helped me through my trials,
With some peace from the Lord above.
Next thing I know I'm on the stage,
Doing everything that I've dreamed of.
Now it seems that I am the light on the stage.

Now it seems that we are the lights on the stage.

And I said sing with me.

Oh sing with me,

Sing all night long.

Then hold me close until the morning sun,

Comes searching for the dawn.

And I said sing with me.

Oh sing with me,

Sing with me all night long.

Then hold me close until the morning sun,

Comes searching for the dawn.
