Another night spent over-thinking.
When I was through I made a promise to myself.
I'll have to rust my word is good.
False notions make decisions.
For what it's worth, I tried.
Lay it all on the line.
Long conversations with myself don't seem to get me anywhere.
While highway miles pass me by and headlights pass
for starlight.
These tired eyes need rest.
False notions make decisions.
For what it's worth, I tried.
Lay it all on the line.
Like lying in traffic.
Hope they stay between the lines.
