Movin' down that rock coast line Oh, nothin' but my woman on my mind Hear those waves poundin' on sand Smell that sea air blowin' inland I wonder if she's found another man, oh! Black stone roadway by the sea Oh, I wonder if she's a-missing me Four-wheeled clock keeps tickin' off time Measured minutes by a broken white line, Wonder if I'm really on her mind, oh. And now in my thoughts I feel her eyes, Feel her smilin' by my side, Then I turn around and see There's nobody sittin' here but me, yeah! Rubber tired, oh, lonesome song Tells me that I've done something wrong Days before and then we parted, I wonder why I even started Thinkin' I've been gone far too long. Moving past those rocks and waves I wonder how she spends her days, Watch the sun as we go by Throwin' colors off the water sky, Thinkin' about the rainbows in my baby's eyes. Movin' past those pine-cone trees, Sorry that I had to leave High above on a twisted road Ocean movin' down below I wonder just how far I have to go. Now in my thoughts I feel her eyes, Feel her smilin' by my side, Oh, then I turn around and see There's nobody sittin' here but me, yeah! Rubber tired, oh, lonesome song Tells me that I've done something wrong Days before and then we parted, I wonder why I even started Thinkin' I've been gone far too long. Yeah, I've been gone too long, Oh, now don't you know I've been gone too long, oh yeah. Yeah, woman, oh, I've been gone too long, yeah, Yeah now little girl, I'm coming home, yes. Mm, you know that I'm coming on home,-ac
