I'm like something you dream about,
Like an island inside your mind,
But my heart has been hallowed out by the truly unkind.
I'm like dust in the cornerboards,
Making it so hard to breathe,
Like the places we've been before mean nothing to me.

There's no way of reaching you now.

Save yourself, cause I can't break through,
I'm just trying to get next to you,
Trying to get through to you,
Save yourself.

I'm like the wind through the fallen trees,
I die down whenever you smile,
That's when I know that you think of me and come back to life.

You're like something I dream about,
Like an angel that never comes down,
You are the measure of summertime and the beautiful sound.

There's no way of reaching you now.

Save yourself, cause I can't break through,
I'm just trying to get next to you,
Trying to get through to you, Save yourself.
