"Love Is For Giving"

I could only see the darkness
Through the windows of my heart
And my desperate search for answers
Was driving us apart

I was helplessly falling
Until I felt you there
Holding on
When no one else would dare

You taught me how to love again
When you wrapped me in your angel wings
Look at me now I'm finally home
You showed me my life is for living
And love is for giving

I had all I could of taking
And still I wanted more
But you never took for granted
What I chose to ignore

There's a power in love
That's stronger than desire
And holding on
Will only lift us higher

You taught me how to love again
When you wrapped me in your angel wings
Look at me now I'm finally home
You showed me my life is for living
And love is for giving
