Chuck's Lament: A Child's Dream

By David Crosby, Stephen Stills, Graham Nash and Joe Vitale

From the soundtrack to "Amazing Grace & Chuck"

I think one drop of water in the ocean
Could be the one that sets a wave in motion
That roams around the world

I think one grain of sand upon the beach
Could be the one that lifts you high enough to reach
All around the world

Through the days of endless dreaming
All our lifelong games are played
Watching all the world before us
Waiting for the big parade

You and me, do we leave it to the children?
You and me, what are we leaving what will we be?
You and me, when we're standing and be counted
You and me, do we give it up or let it be?

In my nightmare I am dreaming
All my fears are here with me
I can't wait to find the answer
Face the future and let us be

You and me, do we leave it to the children?
You and me, what are we leaving what will we be?
You and me, when we're standing and be counted
You and me, do we give it up or let it be?

I can't wait to find the answer
Face the future and let us be
I can't wait to find the answer
Face the future and let us be
