It's about a quarter till two. and all that you thought you knew. about the truth is old news. wish I came with a kill switch. but I'm so energized. with love and lies and questions. like who the hell am I. who the hell are you. who the hell am I. how long must I wait. what the hell am I. what the hell are you. what the hell am I. how long must I wait. so I put my mind to the test. and now I'm on a quest to be the best. as I smolder. this is the way to kill. your wandering gaze. your dizzy haze. you're up in flames. tonight we'll light ourselves on fire. in spite of all the good days we've never known. we'll burn at the stake. and start to bake. so we can find the center of you. so burn baby burn. you're so flammable. I want you to burn
