Words by Christopher Cross and John Bettis

Music by Christopher Cross and Michael Omartian

Moving in and out of light
Changing shapes of shadowed life
Bleeding out white
Pastel
To true color

Path crosses path ahead
Which way do I go
Did you go, did you go
Just before I'm lost
There's a heart on the wind

I can hear your voice again
I can feel your love again
I hear you call

Soothing motion of a dying storm
Morning tumbles from a golden horn
What you loved
What you lost
What you gained
Are the things that set you free

Forgiving bridge of now and then
Time's a canyon you can cross again
Soul touches soul
And the sound that they make will never end

I can hear your voice calling me
I can feel your love again

There's a hero's hand
Breakin' my fall
You drown the siren's song
When I hear you call
