Step back, think of what a beautiful thing we have to lose

But it's so large, so large

And mind me never losing much of anything, I'm as lost as you

And it's so hard, so hard

Open up wider

Cause we could use another hero

Open up wider

Cause we are far to comfortable

I'm scared, things look very different since I opened up my Eyes

And it's so wrong so wrong

And what I want is really what I needed and this I can't deny

It's been so long so long

Is it getting through, there's so much to lose, the lost and the

Lonely are counting on you

To open your eyes, and for the first time, not stand at attention

While they're falling behind

We're falling behind

Everything I said to you, tell me were you listening

And everything I sang to you, tell me were you listening

And every word I screamed at you, tell me were you listening

Cause every letter was for you, tell me are you listening
