Don't look me in the eyes
What's on my face is not what's inside
It's a picture you could never paint
You don't understand, you could never relate
It's heavy thoughts
Increasing weight, everything you were born to hate
Feeling lost and out of place
Insecurities consume my days
Who's against you?
Why would they care?
I don't have the answers
I just know they are there
Who's against you?
Why would they care?
I don't have the answers
I just know they are there
Eyes that are constantly staring me down
Hands that are pulling me into the ground
Smiles are taunting me
I can't figure out
Why I'm running from someone not worth writing about
Heavy thoughts
Increasing weight
Everyting you were born to hate
Feeling lost
Out of place
Insecurities consume my days
