Last night I dreamt that you were here.
I looked into your eyes which were never so clear.
Things were the same as they would before.
You had to stay as I walked out your door

Trapped in my thought of where you might be.
Wondering if you still remember me.
Now I left that town a couple years ago
but I can't explain how I ever let you go

The friend that was real.
Someone who never lied.
You always knew how I felt inside.
