So you know it all so you know whats best. So you think that this whole world revolves at your request. Strange as it may sound but i have different dreams. I guess expecting you to care was foolish of me. Doubts still haunt my soul. Nothing's a sure bet. I've still got so far to go before my goals are met. Through my 20 years I've learned just who i want to be. My dreams of rocking out all day are all that i can see. How can you say I won't make it. What about me it seems so worthless. Don't try and stay now that it's a cool trip. You had left me before I seemed worth it.
