"Suspension Of Disbelief"

Understanding reason leads to conflicts again
Fortifying resolution, in denial I reign
Deriving fear from insecurity, rape you of your purity
In time you learn to disbelieve a hope for all society

"Reality is just what we tell each other it is. Sane and insane could easily switch places if the insane were to become the majority. You would find yourself locked in a padded cell, wondering, what happened to the world?"

Born again to wallow in your own plague
Never change vanity through broken mirrors
