I know a little place in Hollywood
It's open year round
But only after dark, so
Bring your gal and bring your wine
Unwind from your day
Gee, don't you know
That you're in for a show
When you go to the Hotel Cafe

I know a little place in Hollywood
It's open year round
But only after dark, so
Bring your gal and bring your wine
Unwind from your day
Gee, don't you know
That you're in for a show
When you go to the Hotel Cafe

I've been up down all around
Looking for a place to spend my nights
I don't wanna give it away
I I don't wanna everybody crowding up my space
But I believe in sharing
When you find a good thing
It's only common sense
Nobody likes to do it alone

It's dark and warm and candle lit
The perfect hideaway
But only if it (sh) stays a secret
Don't be shy now come on by
Come here the band play
Gee, don't you know
That you're in for a show
When you go to the Hotel Cafe

(Hey, hey hey)
Hoo-hah, sing it again, boys
(Hey, hey hey)
Uh-huh
[scatting and vocalizing]

I've been up down all around
Looking for a place to spend my nights
I don't wanna give it away
I I don't wanna everybody crowding up my space
I believe in sharing
When you find a good thing
It's only common sense
(Nobody likes to do it alone)
Hahahah

So, if you see my little place in Hollywood
Don't tell your mother, brother, sister Sally, or uncle Joe
Just bring your gal and bring your wine
Unwind from your day
When you go, go, go-o-o-o
Yeah
