Can't Breathe

Written by Cyndi Lauper, A. Kronlund & P. Chou

Can't breath, can't sleep
And words are too big for my head
Some words shouldn't even be said

His eyes his speech
Still rolling around in my bed
Like a ghost waking up from the dead
And it's hare to let go
And it's hard not to show
The fumbling beat of a heart
Repeating itself in the dark

Still laugh sill dream
And bursting apart at the seam of whatever i hoped it would be
Little bird on the wire
Little bird from the fire
I'm circling back where you are Repeating no matter how far

Then time speaks
Through the shuffling feet
And the cold heat
And the soul

Can't breath can't sleep
And words are too big for my head
Some words they should never be said
And it's dark

Oo and heart is what you can't give
But you just did, don't you know...

Can't breath can't sleep
And words are too big for my head
Some words they should never be said
And it's hard to let go....
