I worked with a woman named Minnie
One Christmas eve long ago
When I asked, "What you doing this evening?"
Minnie took on a seasonal glow
She said she'd be waiting for Santa
She'd be wearing a bright red bow

Wo, Minnie and Santa
Minnie and Santa
What they're up to only Heaven knows
She wrote on a card, 'Don't take it so hard
We're headed for the North Pole'

Now Minnie could not be persuaded
That Santa just did not exist
She swore if she put up some mistletoe
Santa'd come give her a kiss
There where she hung up her stockings
All in their silky, soft, sheen
She'd be laying in wait on a bear skin rug
Where the cookies and milk could be seen

Oh, Minnie and Santa
Minnie and Santa
What they're up to only Heaven knows
She wrote on a card, 'Don't take it so hard
We're headed for the North Pole'

Now Minnie was older and wiser
Like a dear Auntie to me
But the night that she ran off with Santa Claus
Was a real epiphany

Oh, Minnie and Santa
Minnie and Santa
What they're up to only Heaven knows
She wrote on a card, 'Don't take it so hard
We're headed for the North Pole'

Next Christmas I passed by the bakery
Staring out from on top of the cake
Was a jolly old Santa with a big silly grin

And a gal in silk stockings and lace

Oh, Minnie and Santa

Minnie and Santa

What they're up to only Heaven knows

She wrote on a card, 'Don't take it so hard

We're headed for the North Pole'

Oh, Minnie and Santa

Minnie and Santa

What they're up to only Heaven knows

She wrote on a card, 'Don't take it so hard

We're headed for the North Pole'

Merry Christmas Minnie

Merry Christmas, ho ho ho
