It might arrive before you know.
A few blessings tasting slow.
Easier said look better rehearsed.
What you need, will only soothe the thirst.
Who let the wings and lick the dust.
Wet the days and watch em rust.
Flowered thoughts growing through your soul.
In your prime, still got a long way to go.
I don't mind killing time.
Don't you dare expect me to care.
Wishing that the wind would blow
In all the things you hope to know.
Easier said yet hard to believe.
If you lose you got all that you need.
Some may find peace of mind.
Don't you dare expect me to care.
I don't mind killing time.
Don't you dare expect me to care.
Killing time, some may find.
