We won the world, when we looked into each others' eyes

And in a moment we totally lost the concept of time
We won the world, when we cast all our fears aside
And we shared in an intimate reverie with a sigh

We won the world, we won the world

We won the world, from the moment that realized
That a day can be made with a welcome and a smile
We won the world, when we finally felt inside
That the other would far exceed just getting by
We won the world

Chorus:

We know everyone fears the unknown
Just the thought of being alone
Yet the heart leads us in the direction that we go
We won the world, we won the world

We won the world, when the feeling would not subside
That the other just might be feeling the same way inside

We won the world, when we felt that the time was right
And we bared our souls to each other for the first time

Chorus

(Musical Interlude)

We won the world, when we were together we shined
And we knew that we'd found in each other one of a kind
We won the world
