You made it all.
And the world that You made;
Fell, apart, all the people cried out:
O'Lord, how long
And You sent the Redeemer;
To come, along, and restore, what's lost
(You made)

You provided all the answers to my questions;
Like, "How did I get here? Question:
Was it through a natural selection?"
No sir, it was the Master's selection (heh)
He did at His discretion.
According to His own will like the Fresh Prince Decided who He put breathe in
Where life starts, where death ends
You know that's quite impressive!
I know that you intended for us all to be best friends.
(yeah!)
But that was 'till death'n sin came to the world;
And put us all into deficit. (yeah)
Which led to my next question:
"Is there any -is there any hope in this depression?"
(yeah)
You said the answer is, "Yes" and then You sent the Kinsman redeemer to step in.

You made it all.
And the world that You made;
Fell, apart, all the people cried out:
O'Lord, how long
And You sent the Redeemer;

to come, along, and restore, what was lost..
(Repeat x2)
(You made)

(uh) Then You came to the rescue.
Like Hillsong and that's the best news!
It took real long, but that was a chess move.
You wasn't tryin' to stall it, like restrooms. (hah)
No You wiser than this song

We're reminded that you are Sovereign, it was all on schedule. (yeah!)
You brought Light into the dark; When you died on the cross;
But that was just a flesh wound! (hah)
Cause death couldn't hold You;
So You rose up with ALL power in your Right Hand!
You left gifts for the whole crew.
And you overloaded us with power that we might stand.
Yeah that was your precise plan;
Made us shine bright, like lights on a nightstand.
And for the rest of our life-span;
You'll restore us back to the image of Christ, yeah!

You made it all!
And the world that you made;
fell apart, and the people cried out;
O'Lord, how long
And You sent the Redeemer;
to come, along, and restore what was lost.
(Repeat x2)
