

Better Than Ezra

"At the Stars -- single remix"

Visit "At the Stars -- single remix" on MotoLyrics.com

Maybe I should drop you at your door
Or leave tonight and vanish up the shore
Anywhere but here

It's 3 o'clock we're driving in your car
You're screaming out the window at the stars
Please don't drive me home

Blame us because we are who we are
Hate us because you'll never get that far
And who'd suppose you would go?
I've already learned enough to know

Tell me all the places we could go
And count the headlights passing on the road
A long, long time ago

Blame us because we are who we are
Hate us because you'll never get that far
And who'd suppose you would go?
I've already learned enough to know

Here we are foreign to their world, straight and composed
Your sermons I can do without, I finally found
That everybody loves to love you when you're far away

Could it be we've done something wrong
We'd make it home to your place before dawn
Please, don't take me home!
Please, don't take me home!

Blame us because we are who we are
Hate us because you'll never get that far
And who'd suppose you would go?
I've already learned, I've already learned enough to know

Visit Better Than Ezra page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

