"What Makes A Man"

I can hear my train a-comin'
It's a lonesome and distant crime
I can hear my train a-comin'
Now im running for my life

What makes a man walk away from his mind?
I think I know, I think I might know.

I can feel the wind a-blowin
Sending shivers down my spine
I can feel the wind a-blowin
Shakes the trees and the power lines

What makes a man spend his whole life in disguise?
I think I know, I think might know

I think I might know€; think I might know, oh

I can see the sun is setting
It's casting shadows on the sea
I can see the sun is setting
It's getting colder, startin' to freeze

What makes a man want to break a heart with ease?
I think I know, I think I might know.

I think I might know
I think I might know
Oh

I can hear my train a-comin'
It looks like time is not on my side
I can hear my train a-comin'
Im still running for my life

What makes a man pray when he's about to die
I think I know, I think I might know

Oh
I think I might know
I think I might know

Oh
