No more dreams of happy endings i can't remember ever feeling so low breathing-only because of instinct i don't care to open my eyes

the room blurs
the curse leaves me
as i fall into darkness
and know peace - for the first time no more sleepless - moonlit nights forced to forget all those childish thoughts of love and compassion like a weed I wither away

the room blurs

no more separation from all those soulless shells that smiled and frowned and look down on me for not wanting to be them
