"I've Set Sail"

It's soon but I've set sail again
The wind feels right this time
The waves are small but they rock my boat just enough
It's soon but I've set sail again
I've put my trust in the constellations the pinholes of hope that steer my boat
I've put my heart in the hands of the man in the moon
It's soon but I've set sail again
And if you get seasick I'll drop anchor and hold you close
And if you get sunstroke I'll let you sit in the hull of my boat
It's soon but I've set sail again
The moon feels right this time
It's big and it's bright and it's in line with the stars
It's soon but I've set sail again
