And in the morning was startled to find no signs of a fight
Left a note on the bed Sleepwalking you left a trail from your house to the shore
When they awoke they encountered a sight they couldn't describe
In the distance the thunder Sleepwalking you left a trail from your house to the shore
Ripped out of their beds, woken up to the sound, you should have listened to their advice.

All I want is your broken heart
Don't you let me on, lead me blindly
All I want is your broken heart
Don't you lead me to the sea of love and let me drown.

Think what you will of me now, your face is the past Cut up and bruised
I've written your name in the sand beneath my feet Forged a path from the rubble, the storm has uncovered
To meet me under the waves tonight
