"Fire Agate"

Silently we kill ourselves with apathy
Bounding for the
Destiny that already was made
Before we could think
And choose the way we want to take

All that is left is another day to face
Searching for a dream to pursue
Anything that could give answers

In these times of doubt
She came to
Make me feel less lost and I'll
But as soon the daylight died
I could not find the cure in her will

The chromatic day became
A distant star
And today your voice is just a
Stain in my brain

She came to
Make me feel less lost and I'll
But as soon the daylight died
I could not find the cure in her will
