He walks in fast steps
But his heart is on our land
Maybe he'll never turn back Full of pride, full of mistakes

Maybe this is not a song about ourselves
Maybe this is a song about the pieces we may leave

(In this life)

In this life, you can't choose what can stay
And when it's gone, you see the leaves falling of your happiness tree

They say I should grow up bigger and stronger
And accept what the destiny keeps for me
But they don't know, it's worst than a burning drink in your throat
It's always horrible when a part of yourself's gone

(In this life you can't choose what can stay)

So pay attention, and don't lose the chance you have to make them happier
'Cause when the game turns, your guilty will be just more than you can stand

This song is not about the life we live, full of lies and futility
This song is for you all open your eyes and don't waste your life in this goddamn world
