This is gonna be a party like it's never been
When the broken hearted love again
All the broken hearted people
When the broken hearted love again

I know a girl who thinks she sold her soul
Sold it to a man whose hands were cold
But ever night before she goes to bed
She hears the sweetest voices in her head
Telling her it's time to start living
Telling her that all, all, all, all, all, all, all will be forgiven

They'll be singin' till the night comes to an end
When the broken hearted love again

Every angel up in heaven will be sent
When the broken hearted love again
This is gonna be a party like it's never been
When the broken hearted love again
All the broken hearted people
When the broken hearted love again

Gonna be a party like it's never been

They'll be singin' till the night comes to an end
When the broken hearted love again
Every angel up in heaven will be sent
When the broken hearted love again
This is gonna be a party like it's never been
When the broken hearted love again
All the broken hearted people
When the broken hearted love again x3
