You lift me up instead of putting me down
You give me strength when I am losing ground
You make me laugh instead of making me cry

I let you in instead of pushing you out
I give you hope when you are full of doubt
I make you laugh instead of making you cry

And you know that I know
What you've been searching for
And I know that you know
It's something we can't ignore
And although we've been low
Now everything's alright
Now we know how it's gonna' be

You say you're sorry instead of shifting the blame
You give me shelter when I'm in the rain

You make me laugh instead of making me cry

I speak the truth instead of telling you lies
I give you water when your mouth is dry
I make you laugh instead of making you cry

And I feel we are growing into something new
And I think where we're going and what we're going through
Is worth pain and misfortune as long as I'm with you
And I think it's for certain, in time we'll say we do

You make it right, whatever's wrong in my life
Push out the darkness and pull in the light
I'll be prince charming and you'll be my snow white
