Christine wakes up
lights a cigarette
tries not to remember what she can't forget
a back against her back his breathing in the dark one day she woke up
they had grown apart
she couldn't sing his name yeah suddenly the universe
just changed

Christine wakes up
coffee in her cup
plays back the message
where he's giving up
and he's moving on he won't be callin' back her pictures are still burning a new day has begun
so why is she crying

and what is this mystery

and who has the map
and where is the road that leads me thru a lifetime and why does her heart fly away like a bird in a cage with no bars and no locks only love to hold her down

an empty bed is cold
reaches for the arms that she used to hold the pattern of our lives a story come to life
the moon blinks its eye and love paid the price cause she never really knew

suddenly the universe

and Christene wakes up
