Guess you thought that I
Was some other guy
You know the one
Always left you cold
When you turned to me
All that you could see
Was just another dreamer
Growing old
And you know the way home
But you're dancing all alone
And I guess you don't know love

No you don't know love
No you don't know love
Well it seems to me
You really don't know love now do ya

How can we walk on by
How can we say nothing
How can we hide our hearts
Imprisoning the pain
You still smile like spring
You make the angels sing
But inside I swear
You're crying like the rain
And you know the way home
But you're dancing all alone

And I guess you don't know love
No you don't know love
No you don't know love

Well it seems to me
You really don't know love now do ya

Do you want to know love
Don't you want to know love
Cause it seems to me
You really don't know love now do ya

And there's poetry buried in our room
With a broken glass filled with Spanish moons

And a book of dreams
That I made for you

Almost had a chance
It almost went that way
I was the only one
Who saw you in the dark
But in the light of day
You always ran away
Won't you tell me
Were you running from your heart now baby
And you know the way home
But you're dancing all alone

No you don't know love
No you don't know love
Well it seems to me
