Each and every night my heart shoulders the armour and charges into the dark to slay what took you from me but there in the eye of the prey I see my reflection the armour now shatters to pieces until I hear the call again

Alone I set out to find you below the timeline
alone and far from the stars
I walk out of gravity

As lightning scorns the night and conspires with the sunken seas out there are hunters of the invisible tracking mere dust for days on cracked soil now they walk on ground that has lost its hold

Alone I set out to find you
below the timeline
alone and far from the stars
I walk the nether paths

In void-like silence through veins of man a new disease breaks our ground by venomous sorrow's hand

So steep my longing
I give in to vertigo whipping of cold black tongues poisons my wounds

Alone I set out to find you
below the timeline
alone and far from the stars
I walk out of gravity
