I went to blossom in the morning sat on the roof of my car Wanted to write something important haven't come up with anything so far

I was thinking about leaving just cash my chips in and walk away
'cause it's the changing of the seasons and my blue skies have all turned gray

I was thinking would it matter if you never saw me again
'cause my life is torn and tattered and I know you'll never ever let me in

I was thinking about leaving
'cause i don't feel the need to stay
'cause it's the changing of the seasons baby and my blue skies have all turned gray

The sun's been stolen from my sky endless days fade into night and I have lived my life in darkness so long well can you shed some light?

I was thinking of driving real fast
just cash my chips in and walk away
and it's the changing of the seasons baby
and my blue skies have all turned gray

I've been thinking about leaving
'cause i don't feel the need to stay
and it's the changing of the seasons baby and my blue skies have all turned to gray and on... and on... and on...
