Pacific sun, you should have warned us, it gets cold here

And the night can freeze before you set it on fire

And our flames go unnoticed

Diminished, faded just as soon as they are fired

We are, we are, intrigued. We are, we are, invisible

Oh, how we've shouted, how we've screamed

Take notice, take interest, take me with you

But all our fears on deaf ears

Tonight, they're burning the roads they built to lead us to the light

And blinding our hearts with their shining lies

While closing our caskets cold and tight, but I'm dying to live

Pacific sun, you should have warned us, these heights are dizzying

And the climb can kill you long before the fall

And our trails go unmarked and unmapped

And covered just as soon as they are crossed

We are, we are, intriguing. We are, we are, desirable
