I heard that you were home again,
But you don't look like you're back to me
But if your focus is changing,
Your gaze is transfixed on the part that I cannot see
You've got your new ties,
I've got your old lies,
You've got your inside lines
But you're never happy with what you've got

Careful now
You're so beautiful
When you've convinced yourself
Noone else is quite as beautiful

I heard the you were living well,
But you don't look like you're living to me
Though the sparkle is gone,
This smile is invasive and everyone watching can see
You've got them all convinsed
And I know it so well
That your can list your friends
That you can count on them

Hold me now
You've got everyone convinced
That you're alright
Noone else is quite as vunrable

As soon as you got it you want something else
It's not the sell that you love it's the cell
It's not the price that going to cost you
It's just the weight that's going to bring you
Down, down, down, down

It's going to bring you
Down, down, down, down, down

Hold me now
You've got everyone convinced
That you're alright
Noone else is quite as vunrable

Careful now
You're so beautiful
When you've convinced yourself
Noone else is quite as beautiful

As soon as you got it you want something else
It's not the sell that you love it's the cell
It's not the price that going to cost you
It's just the weight that's going to bring you
Down, down, down, down

It's going to bring you
Down, down, down, down, down
As soon as you got it you want something else
It's not the sell that you love it's the cell
It's not the price that going to cost you
It's just the weight that's going to bring you
Down
