

David Byrne

"The Man Who Loved Beer"

Visit "The Man Who Loved Beer" on MotoLyrics.com

To whom can I speak today
The brothers they are equal
But the old friends of today
They have become unlovable

To whom can I speak today
The gentleness has perished
And the violent man has
Come down on everyone

To whom can I speak today
The wrong which roams the earth
There can be no end to it
It is just unstoppable

Death is in my sights today
As when a man desires
To see home after many years in jail

February through December
We have such a tragic year
As separate as the fingers
Suddenly as one as the hand

And the violent man
Has come down on everyone
And the violent man
Has come down on everyone

Visit David Byrne page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.