Miles apart in the same room
Staring at nothing at all
This empty space is a vacuum filled with yesterdays
Counting cracks in the ceiling down to the paint on the wall
Falling on around our feeling that we like to win for the next three days

We were lost a long long time ago to reasons we may never know
But now I'm here open eyes open heart open ears
For the seasons that you'll never show
So I'll let you go this year
This year

You're dancing circles around me second time second place
You knock the wind outta my lungs
You have it fair to claim you own the open air

We were lost a long long time ago to reasons we may never know
But now I'm here open eyes open heart open ears
For the seasons that you'll never show
So I'll let you go this year
This year

For everything seem to me we're everything but harmony today
I'm screaming for the melody for all our ties and I put a bonds

We were lost a long long time ago to reasons we may never know

We were lost a long long time ago to reasons we may never know
But now I'm here open eyes open heart open ears
For the seasons that you'll never show
So I'll let you go
So I'll let you go this year
