I've walked through dangers,
I've talked to strangers, but they didn't understand
And when the world seems senseless
It's me and you against them
And I love you because you know who I am

All you dreamers keep dreaming
And let those dreams rise into the light
Go find someone who loves you, to live those dreams through
Don't you go and get swallowed by the night
I've walked the stages
I've read the pages and never, I've never reached the end
All the world seems senseless
You're here with me against them
And I love you because you know who I am

Deep inside every soul
There's a sadness on the verge of climbing through Now don't you try and fix it, why would you do that?
How beautiful when sadness turns to songs

And I'll walk through dangers
I'll dance with strangers, but they'll never understand
We'll never be defenseless
We'll win this war against them
Don't you doubt this, yeah I'm sure we can
And who cares if they don't ever understand
And I love you because you know who I am
