

David Grey "Falling Free"

Visit "Falling Free" on MotoLyrics.com

all of my senses are overthrown by the might of your skin and the lamplight on your cheekbone drawing me further in.
no sentence i can speak for the wonder so unique breaking like a wave upon the shore

mercy me, im falling free since you opened up the door see how the sky is made of sapphire? the colors flowing through our hands the moon is fire in your hair. a million miles beyond what science understands. smell that mountain heaven, i dont remember ever feeling like this before

mercy me, im falling free
since you opened up the door and every windowpane should shatter, if every wall should fall apart well, it might hurt a bit, but would it matter with this diamond in my heart? there's no need to nail it to the ground there's no need to smother it with sense just listen to the rhythm of you heart that pounds and trust it all to chance.
cause we're standin face to face with the angel of grace and dont it just taste so pure?

mercy me, im falling free
mercy me, im falling free
mercy me, im falling free
since you opened up the door

Visit David Grey page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.