The one and only night you don't need to go at all A car rolls up outside on time,
A moment from your call

A hand-shake seems more fitting than a kiss It's such a shame that you and I should have to end like this

Can't we just sit down and talk it over?
Surely you can ask the man to wait It's strange that you're the one so set on leaving And I'm the one who said last night that it was all too late

Can't we just sit down and talk it over?
Who knows, maybe in a little while We'll forget our pride and the things we said last night and maybe you and I can talk it out

Tonight stay somewhere warm, they say it's gonna freeze You may not find a place at all so be sure to take your keys

I can almost taste the silence now Does it really matter still, who was wrong, who let who down?

Can't we just sit down and talk it over?
Who knows, maybe in a little while
We'll forget our pride
And the things we said last night
And maybe you and I can talk it out

Hold on, hold on Surely you and I can talk it out
