Lo !

I pilgrim came from the desert

Draped in sickness, dressed in black

When the utter thunders roared young

And the heart of Valusia enshrined the dark

He was born of the whore

but was forged by wrath

And he was lusting for more

Born at Zins earthdawn

the halo of the chosen foreshadowed the war

Promethean Phosphor

Beared the mark of hatelorn Saturn

And whispered requiems lurid to men

Natus sub Stella Polari

Mortal deva, promethian mortalis
