Strip away everything, untie the noose
Get down to the core of the issue
Know that colors are superficially
Covering our faces
Red flashes set to alarms
Can't give up or throw in the arms
Bent for the worst this time
But it's all in our minds

I bet you wished for better skies
With all your thoughts contained inside
Can't you give it one more try?
There's always room for second skies

If you can't have what you want
And don't want what you have
Well then what's the point
Of dreaming?
Red flashes set to alarms
Can't give up now or throw in the arms
Bent for the worst this time
But it's all in our minds

I bet you wished for better skies
With all your thoughts contained inside
Can't you give it one more try?
There's always room for second skies
For second skies, for better skies

They left you with no name
They left you with all the blame

I bet you wished for better skies
With all your thoughts contained inside
Can't you give it one more try?
You can give it one more try

I bet you wished for better skies
With all your thoughts contained inside
Can't you give it one more try?
You can give it one more try

For better skies, one more try, better skies,
Lovely day so lovely
