It took me more time to realize what this fragile life is for,
Reborn from the captive of this skin, I want to show you
where I stand.
Don't give it up.
No, I'll never turn from all these things that I've learned.
We're tearing down these walls.

I want to follow you to the edge of the earth,
I want to stand by your side.
Mistaken, forgiven, we've got nothing left to hide.
It's time for me to find out what I'm worth.
The price of an everlasting love,
You've given, I've chosen.

Stand on the edge of all that was.

You've got the question in your head,
The only answer left unsaid.
You've got this longing in your soul,
All for what you ought to know.
Reborn from the captive of this skin,
I want to show you where I stand.

Retracing footprints in the sand for love so captivating,
Echoes of all the words you said restore the pulse to a dying world.

Your world.

The face of a stranger carries on
